THE INTERMONT

Virginia Intermont College 1980

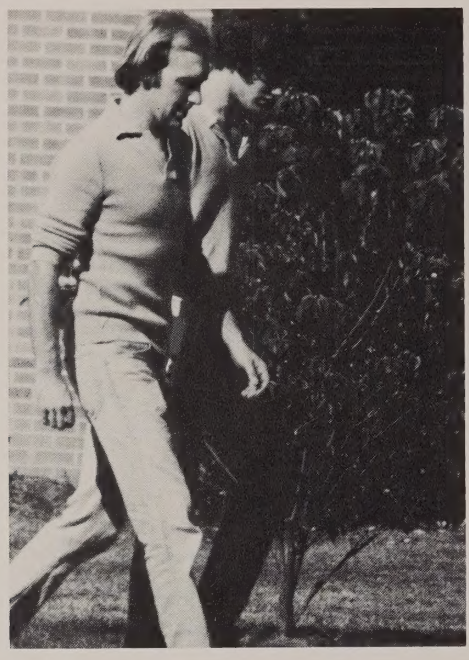
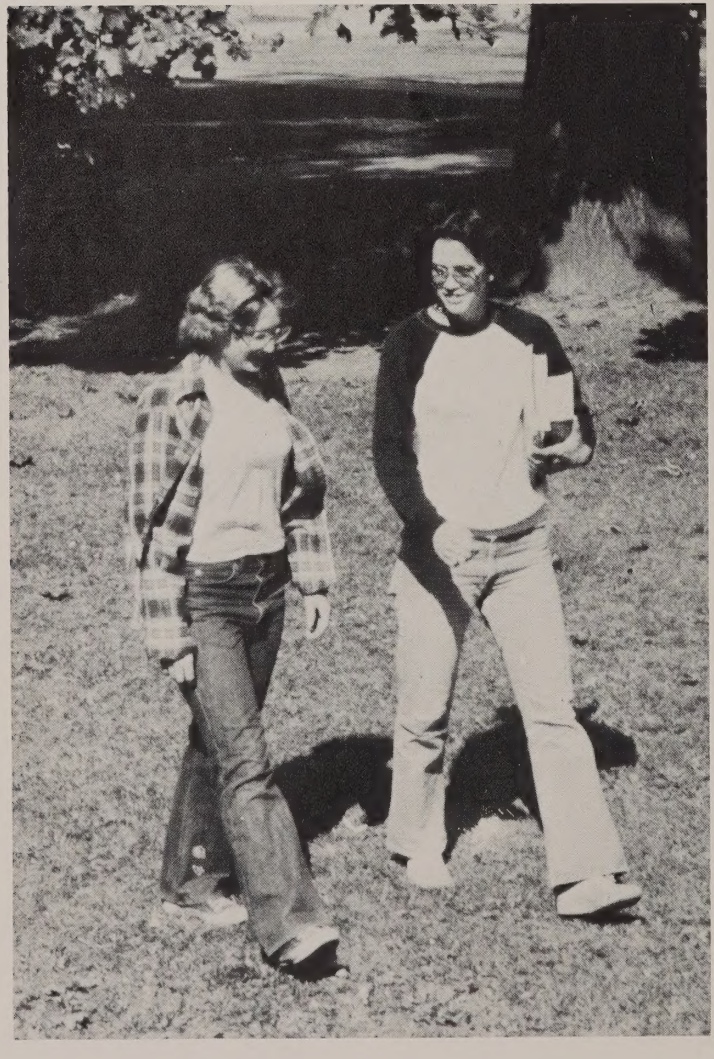
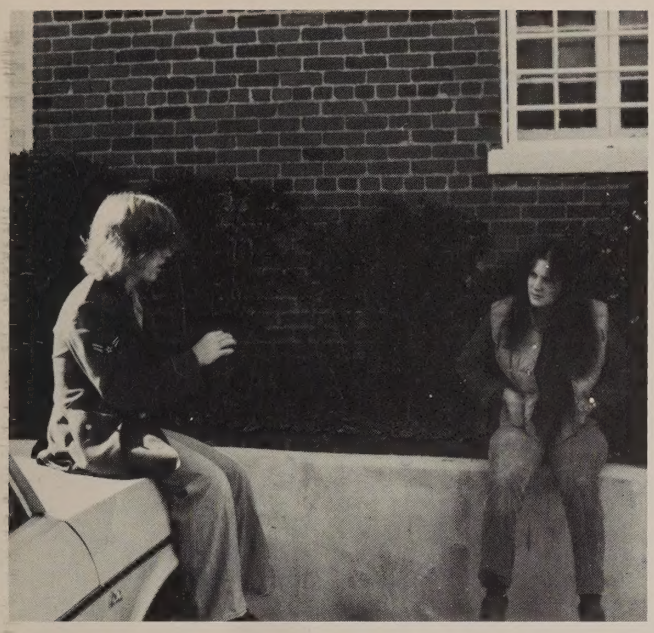
FROM HUMBLE BEGINNINGS . . .





WE HAVE GROWN

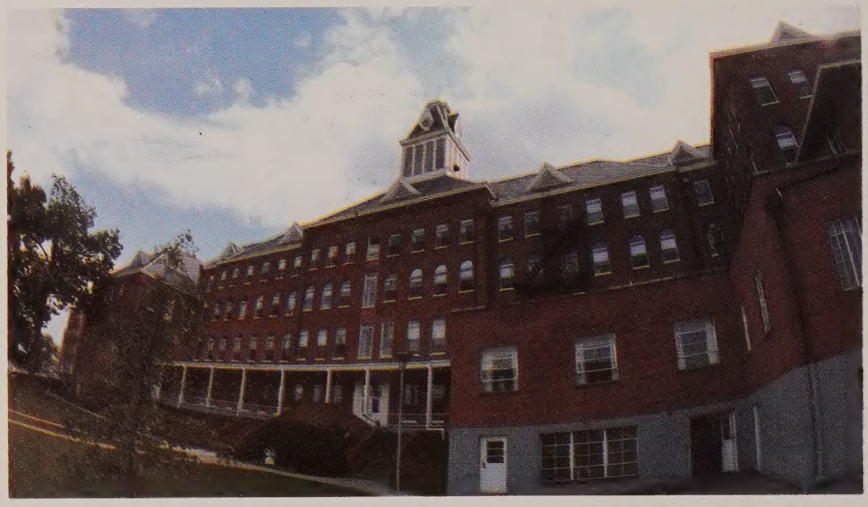


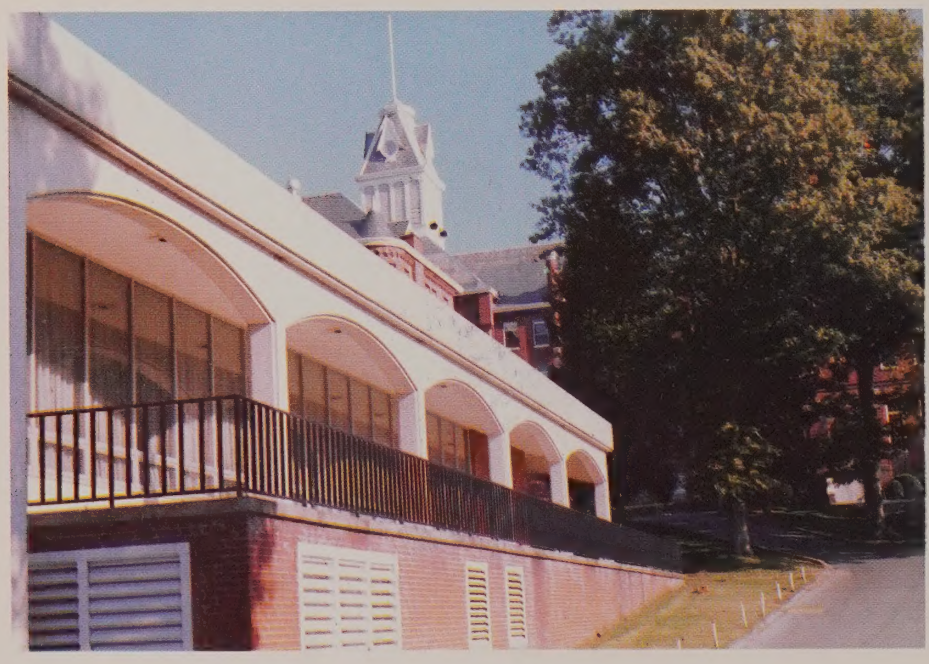
On September 17, 1884 in Glade Spring, Virginia, Reverend J. R. Harrison's dream of establishing a school for the higher education of women became a reality. Eighteen eighty-four marked the opening of the doors of Southwest Institute for thirteen students and three teachers.

Seven years later, the college was moved to its present site in Bristol, Virginia, and the name was changed to Virginia Institute. Again, in 1922 the name was changed to what it is today: Virginia Intermont College.

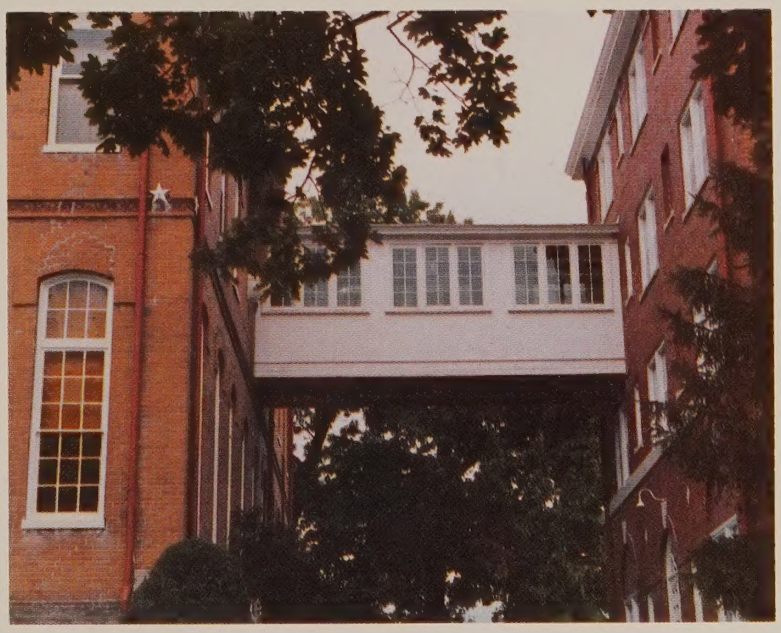
VI has come a long way since that day in Glade Spring. Some of the most dramatic changes have occurred in the decade of the seventies. VI has expanded its programs and policies to meet the changing role of women and education in today's society. It has evolved into an accredited, four year, co-educational college offering Bachelor of Arts degrees in more than twenty different fields of study.

THIS DECADE HAS BROUGHT



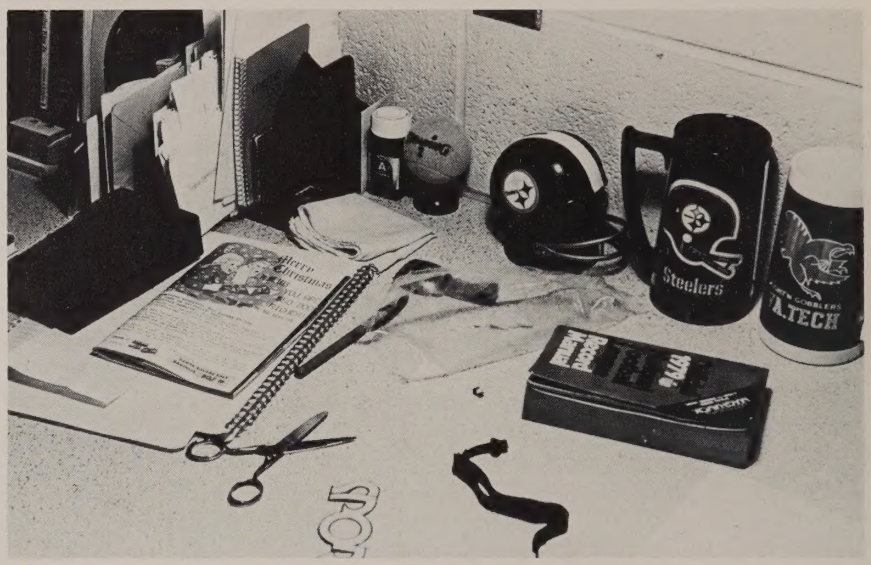


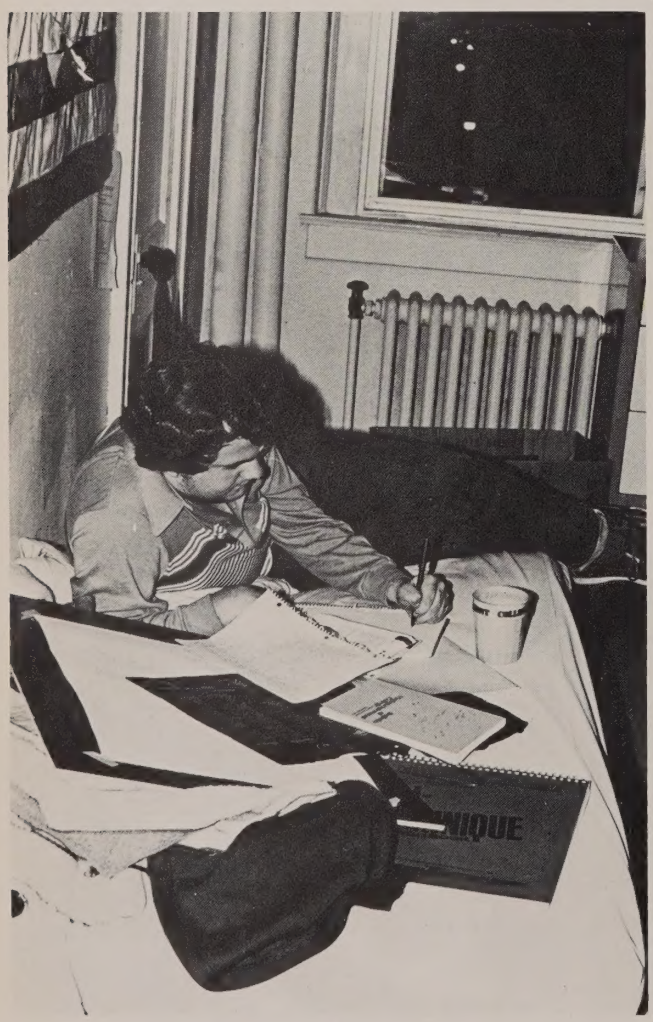
DRAMATIC CHANGES TO VI

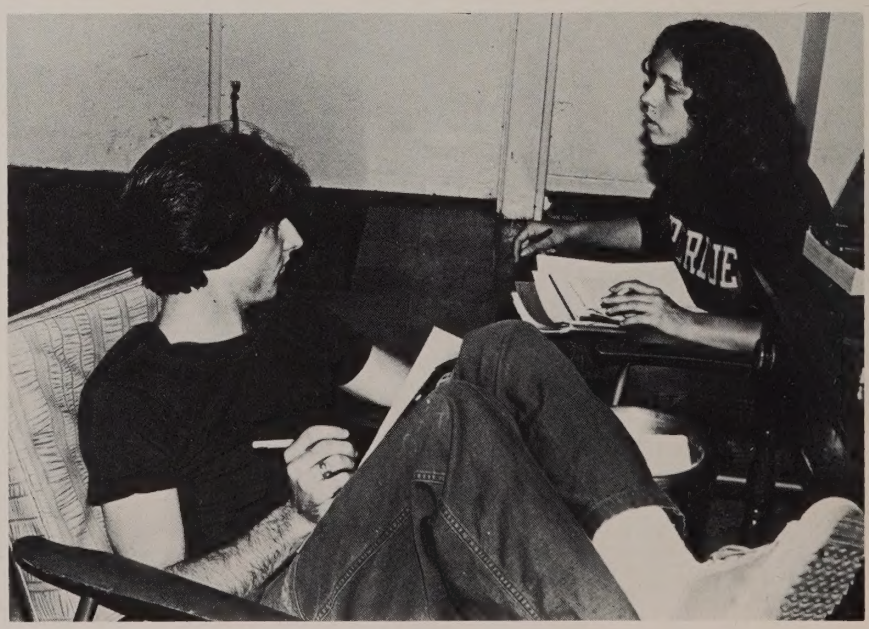


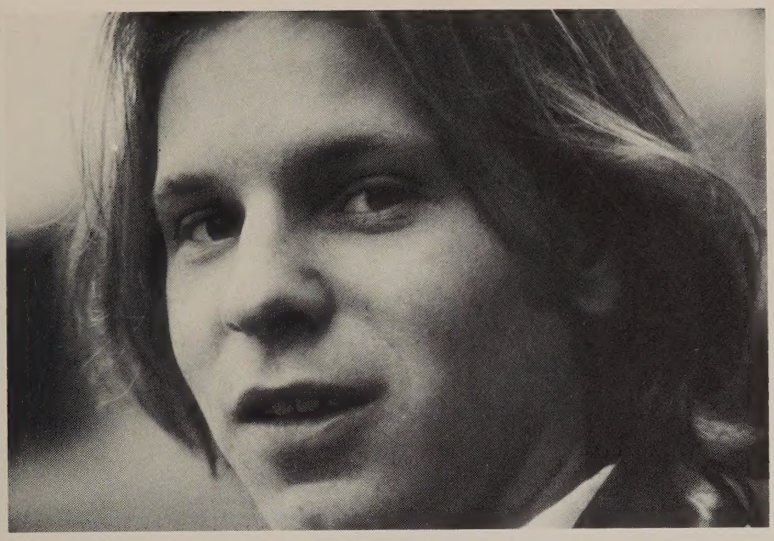
MEN ARE STUDENTS NOW

Men were admitted as degree-seeking students in 1972, and as boarding students in 1977.

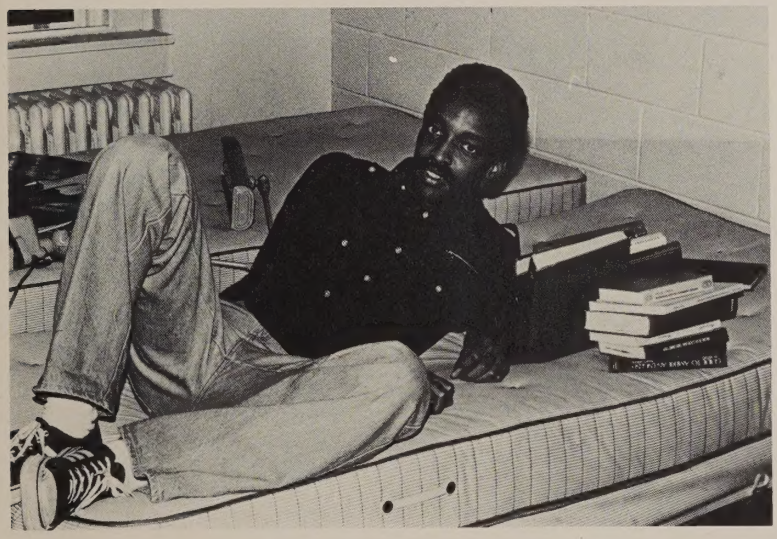


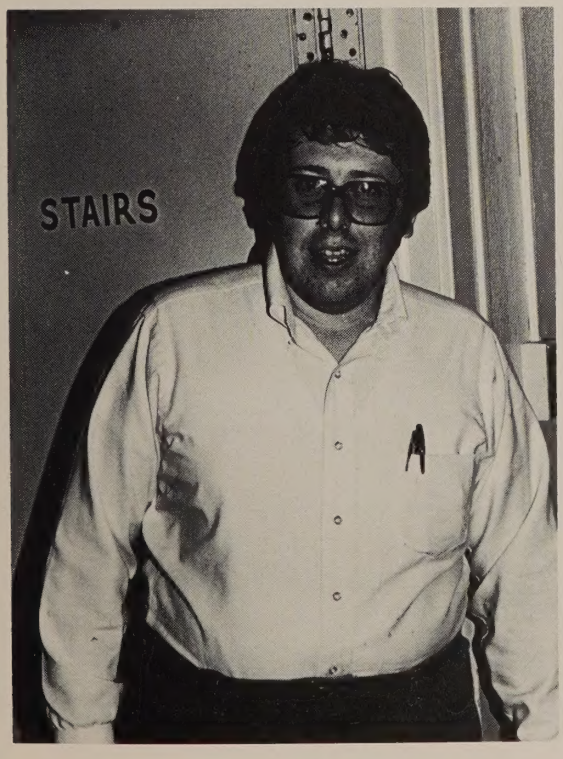


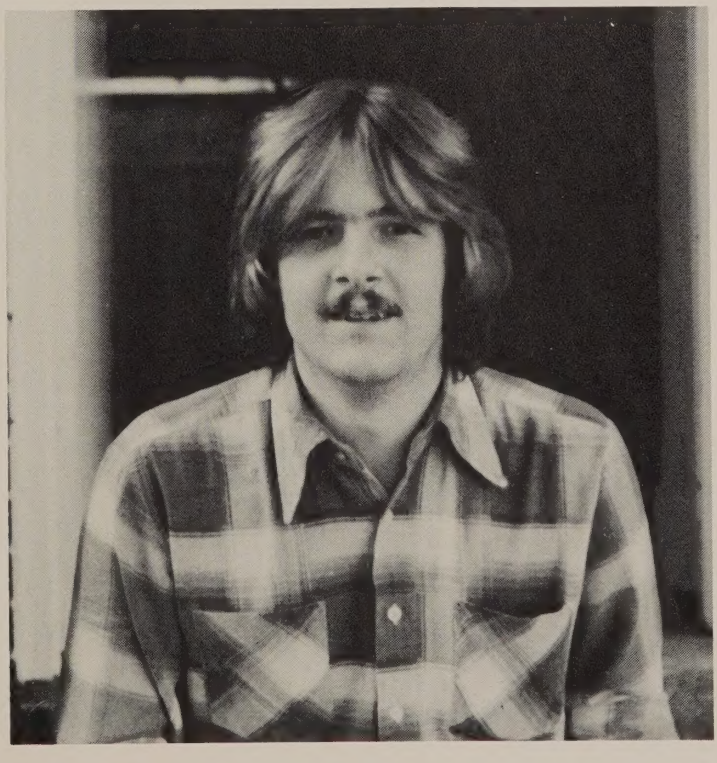




They are not only in classes, but in their own dorm and in VI's life for a long time to come.







". . . Shadwell alone of all my sons is he Who stands confirmed in full stupidity.
The rest to some faint meaning make pretense,
But Shadwell never deviates into sense . . ."
— John Dryden's
"Mac Flecknoe"

On October 3, 1979, the Virginia Intermont Writers Co-op gathered for a lawn reception honoring England's eighteenth century poet laureate, Mr. Thomas Shadwell. A "toast" was offered to Shadwell's poetic genius, often the target of brutal and cruel punishment by poet John Dryden. In defense of the much maligned Mr. Shadwell, the Writers' Co-op established October 3 as "Thomas Shadwell Commemoration Day," with the hope of dissolving any remaining misconceptions about the great artist.

SENIORS

The Last Year

No more early mornings yawning forth Philosophy classes, and no more papers to meet deadlines.
How many times I've had to die in my dreams only to find God a Philosophy teacher scribbling ethical terms on his cloudy blackboard.

Do you remember being young and anxious,
waiting in line to register,
feeling like a child entering kindergarten,
like someone who could walk without a shadow?
There is one more time, to wait in that line, knowing as a Senior,
that from the great menu of courses,
we'll get our choices.

We get into dinner early, flashing
our Senior stickers like FBI agents, to sit at cafeteria tables, grumbling over meatloaf (it's not Mom's) and watching Freshmen chatter with the enthusiasm we once had,
Sipping tea and musing
on uncooked broccoli and late papers.

Sometimes, sitting on the grass,
watching the fountains spit water into the air,
Still not understanding their mystery at dusk,
I turn my head and see the bell tower,
with its phantoms and fairy tales,
Silhouetted against a surrendering sun.
Soon now to approach green benches, waiting to receive visas that will push us into life like parachuters, into air over world with Buddha-like vision of past and present.

In this last year, these last months,
I am again like a child waiting to be born into a furnished apartment and ripe relationships.
And though I would reach my arms beyond twenty-two years of being young and mature like The Oak, even to shed old leaves in winter,
I would nestle in the womb of my youth
a little longer — to hide in the bell tower with the ghost who grins at each year as if one year were just like the next.

Everytime we say hello to some new encounter we're on our way toward goodbye,
Some distance from the actual phase but moving toward it all the same.
The distance between those two words becomes a little less as we grow older.
Because then that tomorrow is only tomorrow.
There is nothing to fear except the coming of another day.
But two against a winter morning are sure to claim one more victory over chance and trouble.
If I seek your eyes I'll do so with my own eyes only.

JUNIORS

The Junior Year

We are the sitting pigeons.
When the freshmen come to join the roost
We are watching, waiting Carefree.
The freshmen trouble us not.
The senior we observe with but a tiny twinge of apprehension.
We watch what they do, because we know.

The time will come when they will spread their wings
And fly away, leaving us the empty space to fill.
And the sitting pigeons will get ready.
We'll fluff our feathers
The same way those seniors do now
When our time comes.

But for now, the sitting pigeons
Sit
And think "We are next in line."

SOPHOMORES

'82

We came — innocent inexperienced in life's moments
We began to learn.
With each new falling leaf we joined our emotions with the ground.
We became older,
decaying with the coldness of newly acquired emotions
Growing and budding
Waking and realizing that life isn't always bright but a cold and unrealizing desperation of learning and becoming a new dimension.

We became and still are becoming individuals
Together in an unspoken unity,
we strive for our individuality
We are but a particle growing up finding life's realities in one huge molecule, earth.
We look for the energy to cope; to love;
to be our own person Wanting to experience life in all the realistic moments we can.

We are but one in ourselves
We are not a group to act in unison
But we are a group of individuals fighting to keep that state of life Becoming and growing into ourselves.

FRESHMEN

'Twas a Bright September Sunday

'Twas a bright September Sunday
And all around V.I.,
All the creatures were stirring,
Here's the reason why:

The Seniors were advising
The Freshmen with care,
Hoping the wild stories
Would give them a scare.

When out on the lawn
Rose such a big clatter,
I sprang from my bed
To see what was the matter.

Away to the window
I flew with a scream,
Ripped off the shade
And dropped out the screen.

The upperclassmen on the lawn
Were singing away,
Inviting the freshmen
To "Come out and play!"

As slowly as snails,
The freshmen they came,
Wondering if everyone
Had really gone insane.

So across the street
To Dr. Glass's we flew
With uneasy feelings
And song sheets, too.

The song how it sounded!
The notes were off-key,
Yet love was around —
I felt it in me.

It was this V.I. spirit
That helped all the way,
When I had tons of problems
On registration day.

Of available classes
There seemed a lack,
And I felt like a lunatic
Beginning to crack!

My mouth and my lips
Were drawn down in a pout,
"When will this end?"
I wanted to shout.

We heard a Senior say
As we ran out of sight,
"Welcome to all — Let's party tonight!"

FACULTY ADMINISTRATION AND STAFF

Since I graduated from V.I. in 1952, you can imagine how many changes there have been — new buildings, new majors, new policies, etc. The social freedom of the students has changed drastically since then. In 1952, we were allowed to date on Wednesday night until 10:30, Friday night 'til 11:00, Saturday night 'til 11:30 and on Sunday afternoon. You had to "sign up" for a date, give your date's name, where you were going, and get approval from the Dean of Students. All freshmen had to double date with an upperclassman. The only places we could wear jeans were in our rooms and on back campus.

Peggy V. Edwards

My stay at V.I.C. spans 10 years — in a way V.I. is more my college than the one I graduated from. I see it over the years as a flexible college, one which has accepted new majors, new types of students, and many new ways. I see V.I. as remaining steadfast in its commitment to good teaching and the importance of the individual. These things have endured as others have changed.

Anita Withers

During the last several years I have noticed that both day and evening students have become more career oriented. They want development through new experiences, and lessons in human relations, to achieve their vocational and educational objectives. Our students want to meet the challenges of change in the society of today and look to their college to provide them with the ability to meet these challenges.

Dan Emmel

How has V.I. changed, since I came in 1931? Greatly! So has the world.

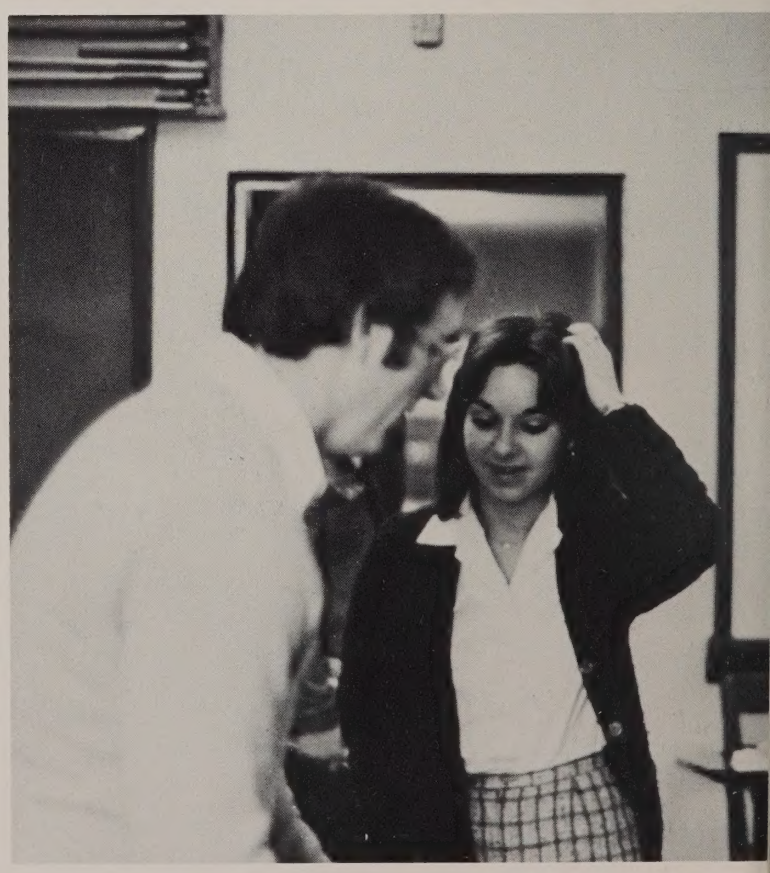
The psychology courses offered at Virginia Intermont provide the student with an opportunity to understand human behavior from an integrated theoretical framework consisting of the physiological, the intra-psychic, and the social behavioral approach. The objective of this approach is to prepare students for possible senior internship positions, entry into graduate school, or entry into various positions in business and industry or in human service organizations.

Understanding human relationships in a complex and changing world is the focus of sociological study at Virginia Intermont. The department feels that the small, informal classes give them a perfect opportunity to deal with important contemporary issues in a scholarly, yet humanistic, way.



The Virginia Intermont Education Department has implemented several new ideas this year. In the fall, they ran a Psychomotor Workshop with the local public schools, and a workshop on "Creative Dramatics in the Classroom," under the leadership of The Road Company (for improvisational theater) from Johnson City, Tennessee. In the spring, another workday was held in conjunction with the Ballet Department on Kinderdance, using creative dance in the classroom.

They are continually expanding their field placements for students in various courses in the program, and have begun an introductory class to help pre-service teachers with mainstreamed handicapped children.

During the last ten years, the English Department has grown and changed dramatically. Enrollment has quadrupled as new courses, programs, and activities have been instituted.

To serve freshmen with particular needs in writing, a writing laboratory and a course in English as a second language have been established. Literature offerings emphasize modern and special-concept courses as well as courses on foreign authors. Students in the teacher-preparation program now work as teachers/tutors in the writing lab and gain experience in methods of teaching basic writing skills. Another addition to the English program is the internship designed for students studying English as a pre-professional major as preparation for employment in various areas of business and government. Beginning with the 1980-81 year, the English Department will offer a new program of study, English with a concentration in creative writing.

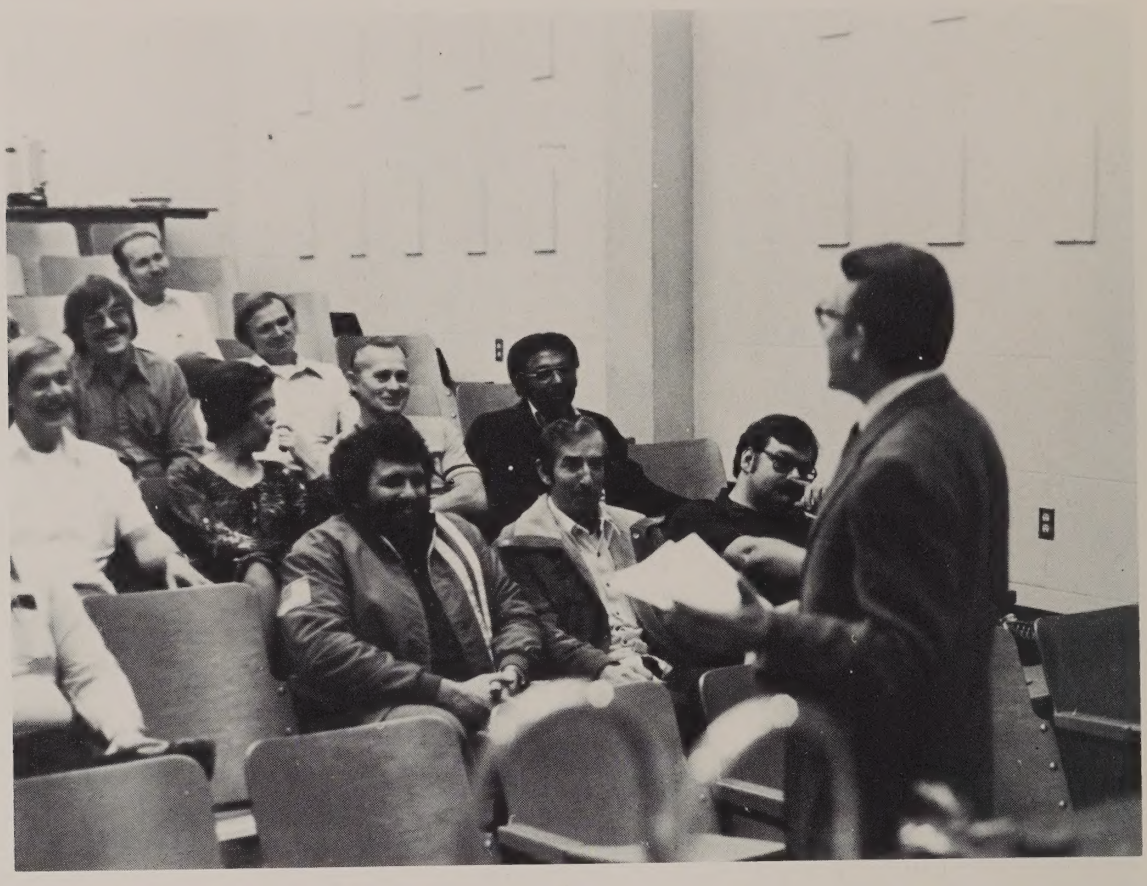
THE OFFICE OF SPECIAL ACADEMIC



PROGRAMS

The Office of Special Academic Programs was established in August of 1978 to enable the college to develop in three functional areas:

1. The Office serves as a centralized unit which administers cooperative education internships for the college. With the help of faculty the office develops job opportunities and assists students in identifying and locating practice assignments related to their abilities and career interests. When VI began internships in 1971 there were three students in the program. In 1980 the office will place over 30 students with host employers.

2. The office is responsible for serving as central coordinator for the Continuing Education Program for the Bristol and Marion centers, assisting in class scheduling and serving as central registrar and academic advisor for the approximately 100 students enrolled in the program.

3. The office is developing the college service of providing and conducting programs for business, labor, industry, and government at their request.

None of these areas, which this office is responsible for administering, existed at V.I. several years ago. They have been developed to enable to college to be viable in the new directions in which education is moving as we enter the next decade.

Campus activities include "Anything Goes" during registration, raffles, a tea during Parents-Alumni Weekend, and ushering during Convocation ceremonies.

This year the National Convention was held in Morehead, Kentucky. V.I. was represented by Carolyn Childs and Judy Woody.

It is more properly the collective title for those students who participate in Bible study groups, open discussions of religious and ethical issues, Chapel services, and various special celebrations during the year. Activities included a weekly study of I Corinthians, a Christmas celebration modeled after a Moravian Love Feast, a student retreat, and guest Chapel addressed by several local ministers, faculty members, and other special speakers.

The choir also sang at the Alumni Banquet during Alumni Weekend, and during the week of March 16-20 the choir toured throughout the state of Virginia, singing in churches and schools. In addition, the choir did several Sunday evening concerts in churches in the Tri-Cities area. On May 8, 1980, the choir presented its annual spring concert in Harrison-Jones Auditorium on campus. SPORTS

If you think you are beaten you are;
If you think you dare not you don't
If you'd like to win but you think you can't,
It's almost a cinch that you won't.

If you think you'll lose you've lost,
For out in the world you'll find Success begins with a fellow's will . . .
It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a race is lost
Ere even a step is run
And many a coward fails
Ere even his work's begun.
Think big and your deeds will grow
Think small and you'll fall behind Think that you can and you will . . .
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're out classed you are,
You've got to think high to rise
You've got to be sure of yourself
If you're ever to win the prize.

Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger faster man
But sooner or later the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

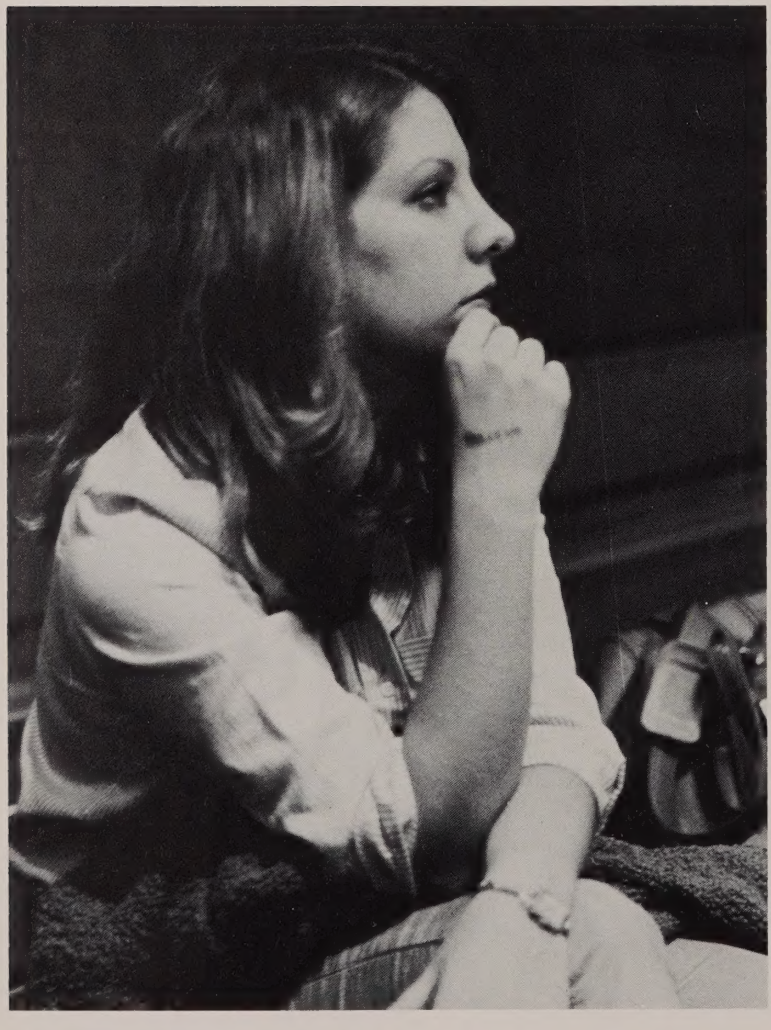
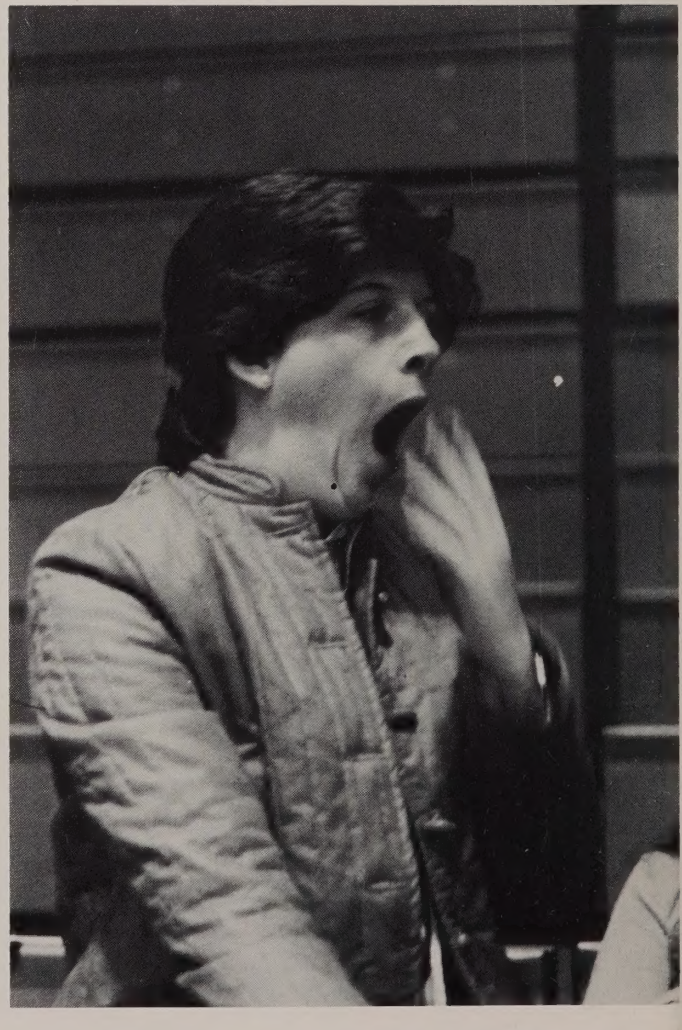
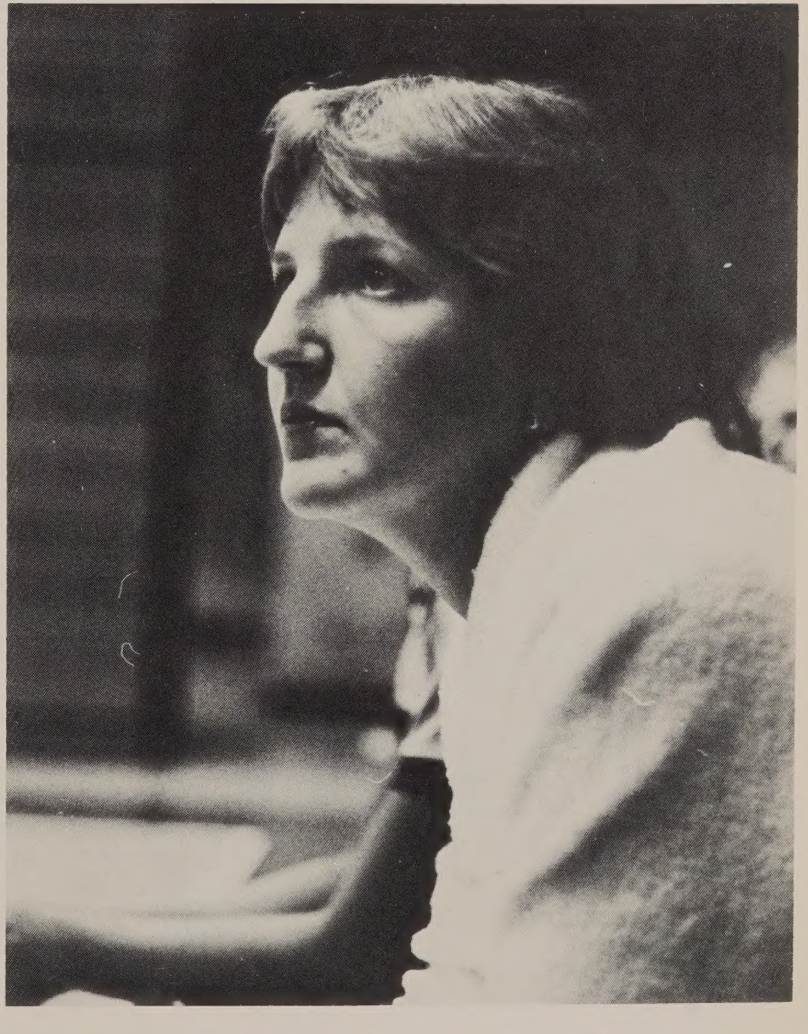
OUR FAITHFUL FANS







Of the more wonderful things
there are in this world
one of them is harmony which some express in music and some express in art — others express it in the realm of sports
which is no less.
For to be a team takes courage and endurance — the ability to persevere not only with the skills of the sport
but with each other.
And if music gives song
and art gives form, perhaps sports
lend an inspiration to life itself.
